

Journal of Medical Music Therapy

Instructions to Authors

About the Journal

This journal is an open access international journal that is peer reviewed and published online without any publication charges for authors including color pictures, audio and video clips. This journal provides the opportunity for researchers and therapists without enough financial support to present a qualified paper to the world.

Scope

Articles from a wide variety area of research, methodology, theory, clinical practice, review, and case report across sound, music, and auditory stimulation related to medical and healthcare practice are accepted.

Manuscript guidelines

Manuscript categories (original article, case report, review article, etc) are decided by editors.

1. Manuscript text should be submitted as Microsoft Word files and tables should be in either MS Word or Excel formats.

2. Figures should be submitted in either tiff, jpeg, or ppt format; audio files in either mp3 or wma format; video files in either wmv, mpg, or avi. All of them should be submitted with appropriate compression and clarity.

3. Each submission should consist of a title page and a main document file with/without audio and video files.

3-1. The title page should include following information.

- manuscript title
- all author names, degrees, affiliations, mailing addresses, and e-mail addresses.
- grant or financial support information and/or a conflict of interest statement
- a 200-word abstract
- five keywords

3-2. The main document file should be double-spaced without page limitation including references, tables, figures, and legends.

4. In-text reference citations should be identified by superscript numbers in order of appearance. A complete, numbered listing of references should be provided at the end of the article. Reference listings should be in sequence in the order they are cited in the text. Journal names should be abbreviated as specified by the National Library of Medicine. References should not include any unpublished observations or personal communications. See sample formats below.

· Journal article, 6 authors or less:

Duffy FH, Denckla MB, Bartels PH, Sandini G, Kiessling LS. Dyslexia: automated diagnosis by computerized classification of brain electrical activity. Ann Neurol 1980; 7: 421-428.

· Journal article, more than 6 authors (list first 3 authors + "et al."):

Crews DW, Gartska WR, Meyer B, et al. The physiology of the garter snake: Analysis and updates. Sci Am. 1980;245:158-159.

5. All figures and tables should be placed at the end of the file and numbered in the order they appear in text. Each table and figure submitted must be cited within the article.

6. Audio and Video Files: Authors are encouraged to submit audio and video clips to further illustrate their work. Acceptable audio and video file types are described in manuscript guideline 2.

7. Permissions and Releases: Material taken directly from a copyrighted source should be clearly identified, and the copyright holder's written permission to reproduce it must be submitted in a separate file. Note: Obtaining permission to reproduce copyrighted material is the author's responsibility, as is payment of any fees the copyright holder may request.

8. Identifiable audio and visual recordings and images of people should be accompanied by a signed release granting permission for their likeness to be reproduced in an article.

In children's cases, the release form must be signed by a parent or guardian.

9. Conflict of Interest: It is the author's responsibility to disclose any potential conflict of interest regarding the manuscript. Additionally, any identifying information regarding a patient should be removed from the manuscript, or informed consent from the patient will be required.

10. Authors who would like to refine the use of English in their manuscripts might consider using the services of a professional English-language editing company. An author's use of these services in no way guarantees that his or her submission will ultimately be accepted. Any costs for using these service are the sole responsibility of the author.
